

Question 13 responses

Having to hunt around as out of stock at some wholesalers

No problems

Foliage is a problem at the moment.

Prices high but can most things we need

And dried floral product

Sundries are less of a problem than last year which was very difficult. Flower prices are very very high and the quality isn't great.

We feel that lots of stock coming through would have been classed as A2 pre-pandemic

No problems at all. I can source all the stock

no just the prices

Flowers are expensive. A lot of sundries are unavailable

Mostly ok

Wholesalers don't have the wide selection in stock anymore

Dislike have to order in advance now due to Brexit!

Occasionally sundries from my regular wholesalers so I have to get from other wholesalers

Expensive

The stock situation is much better than last year but what there is has risen in cost substantially.

VIP Flowers such as Blue Roses and Rainbow Roses

No excellent wholesaler

Boxes were a problem this year

No problem getting stock

Limited choice

need to order plants 2 - 3 days in advance which is a pain and sundries out of stock so expensive and hard to come by n/a as we are telling customers they can't be too choosy- they essentially get what they are given

Low stock levels generally make life difficult

WE SEEM OK FOR NOW

No Problems

Sundries very late in coming onto the market

No problem

